Tsumago is an historic town full of ancient reminders of the Edo period in which it thrived. In 1970, this small town was classified as a National Designated Architectural Preservation Site thanks to the collective effort of its locals to preserve most of the remaining historical buildings.

After check-in, you will enjoy lunch en-route. Your guide will offer recommendations for dining in the Kiso Valley and Magome.

You have an option to stay in a traditional Minshuku Daikichi.

This traditional Japanese inn dates back to feudal times, and in typical minshuku style comprises of just five small, simply furnished rooms with tatami mats and futon bedding, each of which enjoys views over the nearby wooded valley.

This is an ideal location for those who wish to explore the historic highway of Nakasendo Way.

Celebration · ESCAPES ·

— TRANSFORMING DREAMS INTO MEMORIES —

Today you will enjoy a hiking journey in the Nakasendo Way, the 332-mile route traditionally linked Nara and Kyoto. You won't be going that far – on this tour you will explore only a very small portion of this famous highway, walking at a leisure pace and taking in all that this landscape has to offer.

Alternatively, you can choose to return to Tokyo today and enjoy more of Japan's capital.

Celebration · ESCAPES ·

— TRANSFORMING DREAMS INTO MEMORIES —

Today, much of the route is through urban sprawl, with yellow and white stones set in the tarmac to mark the Nakasendo road. But some sections have remained much as they always were and a few of the 69 towns along the route, known as post stations, where travellers rested each night, remain resilient to the Japanese tendency to tear down the old and build anew.

Arguably the prettiest section of the route runs through the Kiso Valley. In spring the valley is decorated with cherry blossoms and in autumn the golden foliage of Japanese maples.

You will tread upon the road that has been worn down over the centuries by the footsteps of thousands of travellers. Now, there is barely a soul in sight but this trail would have once been teeming with people – commoners walked, nobles were carried in enclosed norimons, while samurai travelled on horseback.

Celebration · ESCAPES ·

— TRANSFORMING DREAMS INTO MEMORIES —

You are now in a stretch of the Nakasendo, a 332-mile route linking Kyoto with Edo (now Tokyo) through the Kiso Mountains in central Japan. It is one of five roads used during the Edo period (1603 to 1868) when the emperor in Kyoto no longer held power over the country, having been usurped by the military, headed by the most senior samurai, the shogun in Edo.

After your hike, you will return to your hotel where you will be at leisure for the remainder of the day.

Lunch & Dinner is on your own. Your guide will make arrangements for lunch and you can enjoy dinner in the town tonight.
