One of the liveliest neighborhoods in Paris, and a designated historic area, Montmartre has something for everyone—art, architecture, café and club culture, and, of course panoramic views of Paris.

A funicular travels up the 427-foot —mountain— to the impressive Sacre Coeur Basilica, which was completed in 1912.

Inside you'll find one of the world's largest mosaics; its famous bell, le Savoyarde, is among the heaviest ever cast. If you're up to the climb, the top of the dome offers 360-degree views extending across 20 miles.

You will learn to shop like a local, and experience the joy of buying the freshest produce to take back to your apartment/hotel for a delicious meal à la french style...

We visit a beautiful marché (Farmers Market) in an elegant quartier (quarter) of Paris. We will spend time in front of each of these vendors for in-depth talks: meat, poultry, seafood, dairy products, fruits, vegetables, baked goods and delicatessen products. Come and learn what makes French produce so amazingly tasty and coveted by chefs all over the world.

Next we will travel to one of the upscale neighborhoods in or around Paris for a Gourmet Market Tour.

Paris, the capital of gastronomy, is known worldwide for its prestigious restaurants and its famous brands. But, Paris is before all the city of people fond of food.
So follow us so as to discover it...

The gourmet tour is a two hour visit of a shopping neighborhood, going through a market or a commercial street (such as marche d'Aligre, marche des Batignolles and rue de Levis, quartier Montorgueil, marche Notre-Dame in Versailles),

The market of Aligre is composed of two markets: the covered market whose name is market Beauvau or market Beauvau-Saint-Antoine, in the western half of the place of Aligre, and the market discovered, along the street of 'Aligre and on half is square.

The Batignolles indoor market is held 6 days a week under a hall that dates from 1979. There are several caterers (Lebanese, Moroccan, African ...), Italian and Iberian products and some non-food stalls (jewelry, gifts, repairs ...).

Located between the neighborhoods of Monceau and Batignolles in the 17th arrondissement, this street formerly had a very blue-collar past. Still today, Rue de Lévis remains a cherished place where Parisians can replenish their provisions and enjoy its pedestrian focus.

The Rue de Lévis was likely named for a local proprietor. It follows a portion of the route of the ancient Roman road leading from Paris to Argenteuil, passing by the château de Monceaux, and the dwelling which once housed someone named "Lévis." The market's reputation dates back to the 19th century, a time when the domestic help came here to fill their baskets with foodstuffs destined for the kitchens of the neighborhood's middle-class families.

With its small pedestrian and paved streets, the Montorgueil district has a great charm. The main artery, rue Montorgueil, is home to both early and late-night shops, bars and restaurants, as well as hip clothing boutiques.

In the early morning, the delivery trucks and the ambient agitation reflect the Paris of yesteryear.

The Marché Notre-Dame in Versailles, has served the needs of the population of the town of Versailles since the time of Louis XIV.

A wonderful covered market, built in 1841, anchors the market place. Four buildings, filled with food of all types, provide sensory overload and tempt you with many delicious offerings.

As if that weren't enough, on Tuesday, Friday, and Sunday mornings an open-air market fills the center of the market square, bringing more wonderful produce, cheese, meats, fish, and more. You can even get French snails, or escargots, stuffed with garlic and parsley butter and ready to be baked and served!

Like as if you were friends passing through Paris, we will give you a taste of what is the everyday life of Parisians. We will discover one of Paris' shopping neighborhoods through a trip which will have you meet with quality craftsmen and discover the emblematic French products. (such as bakers, pastry, chocolate makers, cheesemongers, wine sellers and caterers ...)

You like wine? You like cheese? We do too. So we went out to the vineyards and selected for you great French wines. We also ran around Paris to find an outstanding fromager. We did all this with one thing in mind: offering you a fantastic wine and cheese tasting experience.

The Wine and Cheese Lunch has become a landmark for any gourmand traveler. We designed this tasting as a fun and different way to spend a meal in Paris. Instead of going to yet another restaurant, our Wine and Cheese Lunch is a great opportunity not only to taste good French products but also to get an education about them.

The tasting starts at noon in a beautiful tasting room. We'll taste five different wines, coming from five different regions of France. From Champagne to Bordeaux, from Sancerre to the Rhone... just sit back and enjoy this tasty Tour de France of wine and cheeses.

Most of the presentation will be focused on wine. Yet, your sommelier will suggest pairings, will explain to you why this cheese might work better with that wine. While you indulge in two of

After the luncheon, approximately 2:00 pm. you will be returned to your hotel where you will be at leisure for the remainder of the afternoon.

This evening, approximately 6:00 pm, meet your private English-speaking Driver in the lobby of your hotel to begin an extraordinary VIP culinary evening.

We begin with a Private Wine Tasting.

We have arranged a private wine tasting at a very exclusive and upscale wine boutique located in the 5th. The boutique is not open to the public but requires an appointment to visit.

The owner is a collector of old vintages and literally as any reference the client may be looking for going all the way back to a Cognac from around 1860. The place is full of history and the owner is very passionate about what he does. The clients will be able to visit the cellar with him where he can tell them anything they need to know on wines and more specifically old vintages & Grand Crus. A true experience for a connoisseur.

This wine boutique is a mythical site where the famous wine merchant Jean-Baptiste BESSE, settled in the early 30's, had received for more than 50 years wine amateurs from all over the world (HEMINGWAY, USTINOV, etc.)

The Owner has decided to do this place up and settle in, creating a special place dedicated to wine where the catchwords are conviviality and counsel.

Celebraion • ESCAPES •

— TRANSFORMING DREAMS INTO MEMORIES —

Guests can visit a 2 level cellar thanks to stairs visible from the street

- The cellar on the first basement cellar is a place where the greatest bottles are stored.
- The second basement cellar, which was built in 1636, is especially dedicated to the sale of old vintage wines ranging over more than a century;

The tastings take place right in the middle of the most prestigious bottles in the cellar & are conducted by the owner himself in English.

After the tasting, there will be a VIP Dinner hosted by the owner of the boutique where you will enjoy a beautifully catered meal right in the wine cellar. You will be able to continue your education and conversation over a well-thought menu, in which the owner has paired wines from his own cellar to perfectly compliment the meal.

After the evening meal, you will be returned to your hotel for the evening. You will be at leisure to relax in your hotel or if you are so inclined, continue to explore the Parisian nightlife on your own.
